Nanocube Memory Ink Program

Strategic Elements (ASX: SOR) is pleased to report that results from the Nanocube Memory Ink program will be available for release to the market early next week.

100% owned Australian Advanced Materials (AAM) has an exclusive global licence for the technology from UNSW and has contracted the materials group at the UNSW School of Materials Science and Engineering to assist in developing a nanocube memory prototype, improving the technology and creating new intellectual property.
